

Eli Lilly and Company, is a multinational Pharmaceutical Organization leader in research, development and commercialization of innovative products in different therapeutic areas. The company is seeking, to join the Lead Optimization Biology Lab, at the Research and Development Center in Alcobendas:

Chromatographer - Mass Spectrometry

The qualified candidate will be responsible for establishing and performing a variety of LC/MC based methods to interrogate enzymatic drug targets in a medium and high throughput manner.

The profile:

- We are looking for a candidate with at least 4 years of experience and a broad knowledge of liquid chromatography and mass spectrometry as it applies to the needs of in vitro biology and drug discovery.
- A degree B.Sc., Ph.D. or equivalent experience in Analytical Chemistry.
- Ability to work independently and ability to interact with a multidisciplinary team of biologists, medicinal chemists and pharmacologists.
- Excellent English level is mandatory

We offer:

Integration in highly qualified and motivated team. Continuous personal and career development. Competitive salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications. Social Benefits are included.